2014 CALIFORNIA
GRENACHE

Grenache is an international pursuit at Orin Swift that spans from Catalonia to our home base in California. Passionately studied and analyzed, we devote countless hours and travel to produce results worthy of its storied history. While our vineyards in Spain and France have established roots, top quality Grenache is a bit harder to source in California. Thus, we hunt for fruit with added scrutiny that is largely influenced by our Old World learnings. Over the last ten years, we have assembled a chain of secret vineyard blocks for our domestic efforts and reserve some of the best for Trigger Finger. In due time, this collection will feature fruit from our very own Atlas Peak vineyard which is farmed and maintained exclusively by our team. Added control factors such as this fuel our ongoing Grenache quest and honors the wine's namesake, which features a vintage photo of our staff member's favorite "Uncle Bobby."

WINEMAKER'S NOTES

A beautiful crimson laced, purple color coats the entire glass. Exotic aromatics of all spice and Bing cherries set the stage for an explosive entry into a cornucopia of ripe blueberry and concentrated plum and cassis. The mid-palate sets up nicely with layers of bright acidity, subtle richness, and plush flavors of strawberry. Together, this all frames a long and lingering finish layered with soft and subtle chains of long tannins.
